TESTIMONIALS.

The following is an editorial from the Rural New Yorker:

"We have frequently alluded to the Eaton Grape. The vine has proven perfectly hardy, as vigorous as the Concord, with large leaves, which are free from mildew, continuing healthy until destroyed by frost. The berries hold well to the stems; they neither mildew nor crack more than the Concord, though of the largest size. The skin of the berry is just like that of the Concord, or Worden—neither firmer nor more tender. The pulp is less than the Concord or Worden, and not so tough. The berry is for the most part juice; not so sweet as that of the Concord, but free, or nearly so, of the foxy flavor of that variety. We would lay stress upon the following characteristics: Health and vigor of vine; size of berry; size of bunch. The bunches average larger than those of any hardy, healthy black grape ever grown here. It ripens fully, a few days before the Concord. Finally, we would commend a trial of this grape to all our readers, since we have found by fifteen years of experience that those grapes which thrive in this valley will thrive in almost any section of country where grapes are grown."

EATON:—Largest bunch and berry of any I have grown. I have clusters larger and finer than the colored plates sent out of that variety. The quality is very good, better than Concord; is a fine grower and seems perfectly hardy. We had the hottest and driest season ever known here, but Eaton never wilted; seemed perfectly at home in this hot climate Eaton is bound to come to the front. Ripens with Concord.—G. W. BROWN, Winfield, Kansas, in Am' Farm and Horticulturist.

EATON:—Seedling of Concord; very large and showy bunches and berries; fruit about double the size of Concord. Very strong and healthy so far. If it holds out as it starts, will be a most valuable variety for home or market.—Report of Arkansas Experimental Station, Fayetteville, Ark.

Eaton is bearing its immense bunches of immense berries in immense quantities. Quality very juicy and refreshing. Pulp tender. A remarkable grape.—Rural New Yorker.
